and Washington, accompanied always by DEATH IN HORRIBLE FORM his devoted wife, but his feebienesss increased noticeably. Notwithstanding his condition, his death at this time was unexpected, and caused something of a shock to those who knew him.

Senator and Mrs. Stanford's life in this city was naturally a very prominent one. They came here eight years ago, when the shadow of their great grief over the loss of their only child, Leland Stanford, jr., whose death occurred two years previously at Florence, Italy, was still over them. After Mrs. Stanford laid aside her deep mourning, she entertained every winter in the most elaborate style. Her dinners were always notable events, and, perhaps, no banquet in this city has ever exceeded the elegance of the dinner given in honor of President and Mrs. Harrison. While nothing was spared on these special occasions to do honor to distinguished guests, the preparations made for Mrs. Stanford's afternoon receptions each winter were no less marked. The humblest visitor was made as welcome as the most favored, and the resources of the entire establishment were at the pleasure of the great throngs of people, who always came, Senator Stanford made it a rule to get home from the Senate early on these days, and took the same interest in seeing the to offer them as if he had a personal acquaintance with each. Time and time again both the Senator and his wife spoke of the pleasure it gave them to meet the people of this city in their own home. It was a custom brought on by them from California.

Of Senator Stanford's magnificent gifts in the cause of education and his constant responses to all claims of public charity the world already knows. Of thousands and bundreds of thousands of dollars freely bestowed, but of which none knew but himself, the record will not be told. It is safe to say that he never refused a personal appeal, and frequently gave much more than was asked. Mr. Stanford, in all the great undertakings which accumulated for him such immense wealth, never started any project, no matter how important or simple, without talking it over with his wife. Her judgment weighed beavily with him in every incident of his career. Both of them were serious minded, and both full of good will and benevolence in managing the riches intrusted to them.

Ex-President Harrison Receives the News. Ex-President Harrison was seen, yesterday afternoon, and was asked to give some expression about the death of Senator Stanford. He was about to step into his carriage to be taken to a train for Chicago, and had time to say but a word. He said: "I am sorry that I have not more time to speak. The news of the death of Senator Stanford came to me, and it was with profound sorrow that I greeted it. It was a severe shock. He and I had always been on the most pleasant terms, and I am exceedingly grieved to hear of his demise."

THE SENATOR'S CAREER.

He Was Successful Both in Business and Politics-Leland Stanford, Jr., University. Leland Stanford was the son of a farmer. His career is thus summarized: He was born in Watervieit Albany county, New York, March 9, 1824. He was admitted to the bar and began practicing law at Port Washington, Wis., in 1849. In 1850 he married Jane Lathrop at Albany, N. Y., and two years later removed to California and engaged in mining. In 1860 he was a delegate to the national Republican convention that nominated for President Abraham Lincoln, of whose nomination he was an earnest advocate. He was elected Governor of California in 1861; chosen president of the Central Pacific road in 1865; drove the Promontory. U. T., in 1869; elected United years or more. He was universally loved, States Senator from California in 1885; laid the corner-stone of Leland Stanford, jr., University in 1887; opened Leland Stanford, jr.. University in 1891, and was re-elected United States Senator from Cali-Senator Stanford was possessed of graat wealth and he spent it freely. Both he and his wife were imbued with a charitable spirit, Among Mrs. Stanford's many "noble acts" stands one-the Lathrop Memorial-an institution for the care of infants and children during the day, giving to the mothers who are compelled to labor an opportunity to pursue their respective labors tree from the hourly care of their children. This institution is located on her father's old homestead in Albany, N. Y. The buildings, with the future maintenance, were constructed and are supported from the private funds of Mrs. Stanford, who spends yearly many thousands in charities and in the maintenance of six kindergarten schools in San Francisco, in which her young son during his life was deeply interested, this fact now serving to her as an inspiration in her benevolent and noble work.

The greatest philanthropic act of the Stanfords, however, was the founding of Leland Stanford, jr., University, in mem-ory of their son. Although the credit of the deed was given to the Senator, his wife took great interest in the matter and joined with her husband in endowing the enterprise. So much of inaccuracy has been mingled with the statements relative to the university that a short narration of the facts concerning its foundation and endowment may not be uninteresting, as it was the largest individual gift that has ever been made in any country for the purpose of education. The facts are as follows: On Nov. 11, 1885, Leland Stanford and Jane Lathrop Stanford, his wife-being desirous of promoting the pubhe welfare by founding and endowing a university for both sexes, with colleges, schools, seminaries of learning, mathematical institutes, museums, galleries of art, and other things necessary and appropriate to a university of high degree-granted and conveyed to Lorenzo Sawyer and twenty-three other associate trustees and their successors forever the real and personal property valued at $20,000,000. This is the university over which David Starr Jordan, of Indiana, presides, and where ex-President Harrison is engaged to deliver lectures on international law. Various estimates from time to time have been made of Senator Stanford's wealth. He has been by many placed as high as $20,000,000, and even $30,000,000, and again there have been those who have leaned all barriers and placed his wealth at $70,000 .-000. In these times, and considering his interests in the Southern Pacific system. the great Palo Alto and Vina ranches, his city and country residences, it is difficult to arrive at what he actually was worth. The residence at Palo Alto, with its extensive grounds, is undoubtedly the finest of its kind in California, and, perhaps, there are no country residences in America in all respects so fine. It was there that the Senator spent most of his time since he returned from Washington. In his residence there and on California street, San Franpisco, are pictures and statuary that cost hundreds of thousands of dollars. He lived like a king, traveled, as all know, by special car and with a retinue of attendants that astonished even the richest men of the old world.

The World's Congresses. CHICAGO, June 21 .- The world's congress of commerce and finance was better attended to-day, notwithstanding the warm weather. The morning was given to the call of States and the presentation of addresses by the delegates. No session was held this afternoon. To-night Lyman J. Gage presided over a union meeting at which several addresses were delivered. The railway commerce congress was very meagerly attended to-day. A number of able papers were read by proxy, the authors not being present. In the life insurance congress, A. G. Ramsey, Mrs. Clark Waring and others read interesting papers on insurance topics. The mutual life underwriters discussed several proposed changes in the methods of assessment insurance, but no action was taken.

"About ten years ago I contracted a severe case of blood poison. Leading physicians prescribed medicine after medicine, which I took without any relief. I also tried mercurial and potash remedies, with unsuccession results, but which brought on an attack of mercurial rheumatism that made my life DESTINE one of agony. After suffering 1801 four years I gave up all remedies and began using S. S. S. After taking several bottles I was entirely cured and able to resume work. Is the greatest medicine for blood poisoning to-day on the market."

James Young, of Gas City, Expires in Paroxysms from Hydrophobia.

Two Months Ago He Had a Terrible Fight with a Dog and Later Took the Pasteur Treatment at Chicago-Uther State News.

DEATH WAS MERCIFUL.

Well-Authenticated Fatal Case of Rabies at Gas City.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. GAS CITY, Ind., June 21.-Venerable James Young died in frightful paroxysms at 9 o'clock to-night of hydrophobia, that most feared of all diseases. Two months ago Mr. Young was walking along Main street near his home one Sunday morning, when a dog leaped over a fence and sprang at his throat. Its fangs sank deep into his cheek and chin and his face was horribly lacerated. Several of the old gentleman's teeth were picked up on the sidewalk afterward. Mr. Young fought the savage brute with all his strength, but before assistance could reach him his arm and wrist had been bitten through and through. The dog was killed. and, while Mr. Young's injuries were serious, the common opinion was that the dog was simply vicious, and that there was no danger of rables. The family, however, neglected no precautions. One son, William, is the trustee of the township in which Gas City is situated, and is one of the prominent young men of the community. Another son, Edward, is a well-known insurance man of Marion. These promptly took the matter in hand and their father was sent to the Pasteur Institute at Chicago, where he took a full course of treatment, continuing eighteen days.

When he returned home the wounds were all healed except one in his wrist, which continued to suppurate. This condition remained until a few days ago when the wound seemed to dry up, and the pus ceased to flow. Almost simultaneously it was noted that Mr. Young became stupid and listless. Last Sunday night he was nervous and exceedingly restless, and Monday the same symptoms had increased to such a degree that Drs. G. W. McKinney and S. S. Horne were called in. Since that time the physicians have been with the ailing man almost constantly. His restlessness has increased, until this afternoon he was terribly violent. At times five strong men were required to keep him in bed. He suffered fearfully for water, but every attempt to swallow caused frightful spasms of the throat. He talked wildly, even as late as this evening, and constantly, dwelling much on the attack of the dog which brought him where he is. He had hallucinations, too, imagining that he saw strange objects in the room. The symptom commonly spoken of as frothing at the mouth was present, a thick whitish mucus gathering all the time in his throat and exuding upon his lips. This was so continuous that one person was kept busy wiping away the accumulation. At 8:80 o'clock Mr. Young was somewhat quieter, because of the effects of heavy injections of morphine. It was believed he could not live till morning, and his family and friends gathered about praying.

James Young was sixty-four years old, and his face and figure were familiar to every citizen, old and young. His fondness for boys made him seem a companion to them, and little boys on the street have often been heard calling him "Jim," in an affectionate way. The whole community is deeply stirred by the sad affair.

RIOT CASES OVER.

Lafayette, Henceforth, Will Have a Resi from the Tiresome Prosecutions.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. LAFAYETTE, Ind., June 21 .- State's At torney William R. Wood came very near closing up the riot cases entirely to-day. Philip McCauley, Bert Carter, Robert Shaffer, Thomas Mehegan, George Schil ling, William Joyce, Charles Lind-Roy Sheehan, James Carter, John Kaine, William Reinle, Dennis McManus and John Dickason each entered pleas of guilty to disturbing a public meeting. Gabe Gillespie. Hugh Dolan, George Bennewitz, Frank Tengen. Frank Koenig and James Matthews had previously entered pleas of guilty to a similar charge. Indictments against the following charged with riot, growing out of the opera house disturbance, were also nolle prossed: John Dickason, Wm. Reible, Robert Shaffer, Philip McCauley, Bert Carter, Frank Tengen, George Bennewitz, Matthews, Gabe Gillespie, Thomas Mehegan, George Schilling, Frank Koenig, William Joyce, Charles Lindsey, Roy Sheehan, John Kain. Indictments for conspiracy to commit a felony were dismissed against the following: Philip McCauley. William Joyce, James Carter. Indict- | child. ments for assault with intent to commit a murder were nolle prossed against William Joyce, Philip McCauley, James Carter. There are a number of indictments still pending against Bart, Murphy. Peter J. Clark, William Mackessy and William

Temple. The latter was indicted as one of the conspirators, but he took "leg bail" at the same time that Peter J. Clark left, and he has never been tried. The indictment against him will be permitted to stand, as will also those against Murphy, Clark and Mackessy, the three men convicted.

DEFEATED BY THE CLERGY

Dr. Miquel, the German Statesman, Discusses the Recent Election.

And Says Catholic Voters Were Influenced Through the Confessional-Anarchists Cause a Fatal Panic at Madrid.

CAUSE OF THE KAISER'S DEFEAT. Dr. Miquel Thinks Catholic Priests Worked Against the Army Bill.

BERLIN, June 21.—The representative in this city of the Associated Press to-day had an interview with Dr. Johann Miquel Prussian Minister of Finance, in regard to the political situation. Dr. Miquel is one of the foremost statesmen not only of Prussia, but of the empire, and he has been more than once mentioned as the propable successor of Chancellor Von Caprivi when the latter makes up his mind to retire from office. Dr. Miquel was frank in his utterances regarding the significance of the late elections. He said that the balloting hitherto had proved that generally the intelligent classes were in favor of the army bill as proposed by the government. Among these classes, however, there was one exception, This was the class or political secof the Roman Catholic Church-that is the Center party. Dr. Miquel added that he did not mean to imply that this party was unpatriotic, but he did believe that their consciences had been overruled through the confessional. It was an undisputed fact that a powerful party at the Vatican is strongly against the strengthening of Germany, hence this party works secretly against the bill In speaking of the campaign Dr. Miquel said that the most remarkable feature of it was the complete wiping out of the can-didates of the Richterists or Radical People's party. It would be a great pity, he further said, if Herr Richter, the leader of this faction, should be personalexcluded from the Reichstag by result of the bye-election that necessary in his constituency. Dr. Miquel showed his broad-mindedness by his references to Herr Richter, who is his political opponent. He praised Herr Richter's parliamentary ability, and said, among other things, that be was a most clever speaker, though his ideas did not always bear fruit.

With reference to the army bill Dr. Miquel said it was possible that the government, through skillful management, would evolve a majority. This majority would, in his opinion, be obtained on agrarian lines against the Socialist, Radical and particularist minority.

WORK OF ANARCHISTS.

Spanish Noble Killed, Another Fatally Hurt and Several Persons Seriously Injured. Madrid, June 21 .- Great excitement prevails throughout the city in consequence of the dastardly attempt, last night, to blow up with dynamite the residence of Senor Canovas Del Castillo, lately Prime Minister. Though the occupants of the residence of the ex-Prime Minister escaped unscathed, one person was killed, another fatally and several seriously injured. At the time of the explosion a performance was being given at a circus a short distance from the residence of Senor Castillo. The shock was so great that it caused a part of the ceiling directly over the stalls that were occupied by a party of nobles to crash down upon the heads of the occupants. Blinded by the dust that filled the air and with the roar of the explosion still reverberating through the building the people were panic stricken and made a rush for the exits, paying no attention to those who were unlucky enough to stumble and fall, but trampling upon them in frantic efforts to escape. Among the occupants of the stage were the grandson of the Marquis of Havana, President of the Senate, and a son of Marquis Guadalest. The former was struck on the head by a large piece of falling ceiling and received injuries that will cause his death. The son of Marquis Guadalest attempted to rush from the building, but lost his footing and the panie stricken crowd trampled him to death. Seven other persons were also trampled upon by the crowd and seriously injured, while a large num-ber of those who escaped unaided from the building received painful but not dangerous injuries. It is generally believed that the explosion was the work of Anarchists, whose headquarters are at Barcelona. The wounded accomplice of the dead bombthrower has made a partial confession. Under pressure from the police the man, whose name is Suarez, admitted that the dead man was an Anarchist named Ruiz, and that he carried at the time of the explosion a bottle containing gunpowder and shot. Five more Anarchists have been arrested in this city, and seven-teen in Barcelons for complicity in the bombthrowing plot.

A MEXICAN SAINT. Teress Urrea Permitted to Return to Her Native Country-Her Wonderful Cures. HERMOSILLO, Mexico, June 21.-Teresa Urrea, the patron saint of the Indians of the State of Sonora, has returned to her native country, and is now living with her father in the town of Cabora, where, it is said, she has performed some marvelous cures during the past four years. Hundreds of Indians and ignorant Mexicans welcomed her return to Mexico, and the mountain sides around Cabora are dotted with tents of afflicted people who have flocked to see the girl and receive treatment. Teresa charges nothing for her treatment and claims she received the power to heal from God. The Indians regard her as their real and only saint, and she sways them at her will. A few days ago a band of about sixty Yaqui Indians rode into Cabora and, going to the home of Teresa, made her a present of a large amount of the richest native gold ever seen in this part of Mexico. The present amounted to several thousand dollars in value. Teresa has had an eventful career during the past two years. About a year ago she was arrested at her home in the Sierra Madre mountains, this State, and conveyed, together with her father, to Guyamas, where she was thrown into prison, by order of the Mexican authorities, on the charge of being a witch or an impostor. There was an official test made of her powers at Guyamas, and the result, it was claimed, showed that the girl could perform cures by simply laying her hands upon the patient. The Indians became demonstrative on account of the imprisonment of their saint, and the Governor of Sonoro expelled Teresa and her father from Mexico. The two were escorted across the border line of Mexico into the United States by a detachment of troops. The exiles found retuge in the town of Nogales. Ariz., where Teresa was visited by thousands of Mexicans and continued to perform her cures. She was recently permitted to return to her old home at Cabora, but it is not known what promises she made to the Mexican authorities.

NEW BEHRING SEA PROPOSALS. Sir Kichard Webster Submits Documents

That Mr. Carter Objects To. Paris, June 21.-At yesterday's session of the Behring sea tribunal of arbitration Sir Richard Webster, of counsel for Great Britain, submitted to the tribunal a series of regulations, comprising eight clauses. which Great Britain asks the tribunal to adort. The chief features of these proposed regulations are that vessels engaged in pelagic seal hunting may obtain licenses DES MOINES, Ia., June 21.-The National | at either Victoria, or Vancouver, or Port Association of Swine Breeders, in session Townsend, or San Francisco. Licenses shall only be granted to sailing vessels, Sealing shall always be absolutely prohibited within twenty miles of the Pribyloff islands. A close season for belagic sealing shall be established and it shall extend from Sept. 15 to July 1. No ritles or nets shall be used by pelagic hunters. All vessels engaged in pelagic sealing shall carry a distinguishing liag. All masters of such vessels shall record in their log books the time of their bunting, the places where they hunted, the number of seals caught event of the breach of any of the foregoing regulations.

When the tribunal met to-day Sir Richard Webster proposed to introduce documents that were submitted to the British Parliament last night relating to Russia's agreement to indemnify the owners of sealing vessels seized by the Russian authorities. Sir Richard said that these documents were now public and, therefore, onld be received by the tribunal.

Mr. James C. Carter, counsel for the United States, strongly objected to the admission of the documents, saying that to receive them would be admitting new evi-

Baron De Courcel, president of the tribunal, did not agree with this view of the matter. Mr. Carter vigorously reiterated that the Americans, having no chance to present their views, it would be an injustice and an inequality to admit the documents Sir Richard Webster desired to present. Baron De Courcel then said that since counsel for the United States maintained his objection to the admission of the documents he would have to consult his colleagues as to their admissibility. The seven arbitrators then held a conference which lasted for twenty minutes. When the conference had been ended Baron De Courcel announced that he would not now decide the question. The tribunal will hear the papers read and decide the matter of their admission afterwards. Sir Richard then read the documents.

ANOTHER FRENCH SENSATION.

M. Clemenceau Accused of Treason-Papers

Stolen from the British Embassy. Paris, June 21.—The Cocarde, Boulangist organ, boasted in its issue of yesterday evening of stealing from a foreign government, in the interest of France, certain papers that involved men whose names were not given, in treason to their country. It is well understood that the charge of treason applies chiefly to M Clemenceau, who on Monday became involved in a dispute in the Chamber of Deputies with MM. Deroulede and Millevoye, Boulangist Deputies, which led to M. Clemenceau challenging each of them to fight a duel. Both challenges were declined. The Figaro to-day says that Mille-voye will submit the documents obtained by the Cocarde to the government before he divulges their contents to the Chamber of Deputies to-morrow, when the questions involved in the extradition case of Cornelius Herz, who is charged with complicity in the Panama canal scandal, and who is now in England, will be discussed in the Chamber. M. Dooret, director of the Cocarde, declares that the documents were stolen from a strong box at the British embassy in Paris during the absence in London of Lord Dufferin, the British embassador.

Mr. E. Phipps, first secretary of the French embassy, says that there is no truth whatever in the story published in the Cocarde to the effect that documents implicating certain Frenchmen in treason to their country had been stolen from the British embassy. Mr. Phipps characterized the story as a heax.

Street-Car Motors.

To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journals In an editorial article in the issue of the Journal of the 4th inst. the following sentence occurs: "The problem was really solved when a street car was propelled and there can be little doubt that in its future evolution electricity will become a rival of steam power as a motive power." ls this statement not misleading and tending to foster a popular misapprehension? The fact is that electricity, as it now generally applied, is not a motor; it is but a transmitter of the power generated in the furnace underneath or in a steam boiler. Electricity depends upon that power for its development, and therefore cannot come into rivalry with steam as a motor. The motive power of a steam engine can he transmitted at short range by gear wheels, to a moderate distance by belting, and still further by means of a rope, and an unlimited disconvenient mode of transmission but, compared with power direct from the boller, exceedingly coatly. Care such a are used on our city lines, are fitted with. two fifteen-horse-power electric motors, making an aggregate power of thirty horses. Cars of the same passenger capacity can be propelled by two mules. Now it is obvious that thirty horse power cannot be required in the car to propel it, even at double the velocity attainable by mule power. But then, that amount of power, with its consequent cost, has to be generated at the power house. The power can be generated on the car by the combustion of natural gas at one-sixth of the cost, by the electric transmitter system. By substituting the direct motor for the transmitting system a considerable reduction of fares can be accomplished, besides paying a good portion of the gross earnings into the city treasury and thereby satisfy both the capitalist and the laborer. INDIANAPOLIS, June 21.
